

Learning network

We provide spaces for discussion, participate in events organized by other institutions and offer our facilities to promote and enrich dialogue related to regenerative agroecological production systems.

Biopreparation's Workshop (FAI-INYM) at INTA Andresito.

Our purpose

Share learnings about the implementation of regenerative agroecological systems and nature-based education with different local, regional and global actors. ● ●

Inspire other institutions and social stakeholders based on FAI's vision of regenerating life for a healthy planet. ● ●

Encourage conversations and activities with other institutions to strengthen the positive impact on the regeneration of ecosystems and communities. ●

Our actions

We organize in-person and virtual spaces for dialogue with different institutions and local, regional and global initiatives. We share our mission and lessons learned at FAI and take an interest in the goals of other institutions.

We collaborate in workshops organized by other institutions, where we are invited to share nature-based education methodologies and the regenerative agroecological production systems implemented in the reserve.

Offer our facilities on the Andresito Peninsula for other organizations and actors to engage in conversations related to the regeneration of life. We have an ample space at the reserve with internet connections and comfortable facilities, immersed in the natural green corridor on the edge of Iguazú National Park. The space can accommodate workshops, meetings and talks for up to 35 people.

PROFAE's socio-environmental film workshop at FAI.

Agroecology students (UNaM) presenting their research on shade grown yerba mate indicators.

Our edge

Meeting point on the Peninsula

At FAI we believe there is power in territory. This is why we offer the reserve as a space for in-person and virtual conversations so we can learn by doing in the context of our surroundings. So we allow nature's voice to emerge as teacher, doing her job in the same place we inhabit.

Essential humanity

The in-person and virtual sessions at FAI are safe, supported, participatory spaces, where human warmth has room for maximum expression. Because when we meet with others, we're careful about the details, can look each other in the eye and discover a new life rhythm together.

We integrate local, regional and global worldviews

The team members at FAI participate in workshops on agroecological practices promoted by local institutions in Andresito and also attend meetings at the regional level in the province of Misiones, and educational institutions in Buenos Aires. In addition, we have been invited by different national and international associations to speak about the history of our foundation and lessons learned at FAI.

Amar educa workshop for bioleadership UK, Hosted by Florencia Casiraghi

Our data

- Biopreparation's workshop production (FAI-INYM) at INTA Andresito.
- Exhibits to integrate yerba mate production with Misiones rainforest conservation.
- Socio-environmental film workshop at FAI organized by the PROFAE extension program at Misiones National University.
- Biointensive gardening workshop for the team on the ground at FAI.
- Virtual dialogues with different institutions.
- Exhibit at San Andrés University.
- Meetings with educators from the Saint Andrew's Scots School.
- Institutional outings in which FAI participated.

